RWAM Insurance Administrators Inc. is excited to announce a new partnership with Wello offering telemedicine to our nationwide client base.

ELMIRA, Ontario, November 24, 2020. Organizations across Canada are experiencing the difficulty of keeping their workforces healthy while continuing to operate. The increase in the remote workforces has further complicated the situation. Telemedicine has emerged as an innovative solution, supporting employee health and wellbeing and allowing businesses to thrive. In response to this need, RWAM is proud to partner with Wello virtual healthcare to offer telemedicine to their clients nationwide. Integrating Wello virtual healthcare into employee benefit programs provides easy access to medical support via phone or video, 24/7

“Wello is a trusted partner for many of our clients and strengthens RWAM’s suite of offerings. Virtual care has shown to be critical in the current work environment and we are pleased to collaborate with this respected company. The integration of Wello’s virtual care services provides options for our Plan Sponsors and will surely benefit Plan Members accessing it coast-to-coast,” said Carole Yari, CEO RWAM Insurance Administrators Inc.

“The importance of reducing face-to-face interactions while continuing to provide high-quality care has heightened in 2020. As a result, virtual healthcare has quickly transitioned from being a nice-to-have employee benefit to a Canadian benefit plan necessity” says Wello President and CRO, Lori Casselman. “Wello is excited to partner with RWAM in ensuring the health and wellness of the members we have the opportunity to support today, while innovating and growing together in the years to come.”

As we all remain focused on reducing the spread of COVID-19 and fostering a healthy economy, this partnership allows Wello to provide 24/7 long-term health support to RWAM’s Canadian plan members and their families through enhanced access to quality healthcare.
